

Business Ethics Code

Eurosyst company document

Purpose

Eurosyst is committed to conducting business lawfully, fairly and with integrity. This Code sets the standards expected of employees, contractors and representatives acting on behalf of Eurosyst.

Integrity and lawful conduct

We comply with applicable UK law, contractual obligations and relevant regulatory requirements. Bribery, corruption, fraud, dishonest conduct and deliberate misrepresentation are not acceptable.

Conflicts of interest should be disclosed promptly so that they can be managed transparently.

Respect at work

We expect professional conduct, dignity and respect. Harassment, bullying, discrimination and retaliation are not acceptable. Recruitment, deployment and development decisions should be based on legitimate business and role requirements.

Security and confidentiality

Personnel must protect client information, personal data, access credentials, keys, security information and other confidential material. Information should only be accessed or disclosed where authorised and necessary.

Human rights and supply chain

Eurosyst does not tolerate forced labour, human trafficking, child labour or exploitation. We expect suppliers and subcontractors to act consistently with these principles.

Raising concerns

Concerns about unethical, unlawful or unsafe conduct should be raised with management or by email to info@eurosyst.co.uk. Reports will be considered seriously and handled as confidentially as reasonably possible.